

UDCC follows Seattle Public School District decisions regarding closure on the first day of a major snowstorm. School district closures are announced on local morning radio and television news. We believe that the closure of Seattle Public Schools is a reliable sign that the weather conditions make traveling dangerous. On subsequent days of a major snow, we will attempt to open the center even if Seattle schools are closed. If the storm persists and traveling is dangerous, the center may remain closed, or open for reduced hours. There will be a message on the UDCC answering machine - be sure to call UDCC (at 206-632-5189) for the latest information in the morning before you leave home.